GIPSA'S PROPOSED RULE CHANGES WILL BE REVIEWED AT WORKSHOPS AROUND THE STATE

The Grain Inspection, Packers and Stockyards Administration, or "GIPSA," is the federal agency responsible for issuing regulations that govern contracting, buying and selling of livestock and poultry has written new rules that- if finalized- would drastically change the way that producers, packers, dealers and contractors raise, buy, and sell livestock and poultry.

attorneys will provide an overview of GIPSA's proposed rule changes for poultry and livestock, review the USDA rule-making process and cover how to submit comments on the proposed rules online.

Additionally, the National Agricultural Law Center will host a webinar online via eXtension for participants around the country on October 14, 2010 at 11 a.m. CST. For more information, contact Elizabeth Rumley at erumley@uark.edu or (479) 387-2331, or visit www.nationalaglawcenter.org/gipsaworkshops
